eCampus Tips	March 20 2:00
Why Go Green?	March 25 1:00
Vanguard Online	March 24-28

After being featured at the League for Innovation and also winning Innovation of the Year, Vanguard Online is back. Last year over 40 CVC employees were involved with Vanguard. Many full-time faculty members and adjuncts participated, but there were also administrators and professional support staff involved.

Vanguard Online's purpose is to teach effective online design and practices. It is presented as an online course and is held over a five day span. Each day a core principle in online course delivery will be presented. For those who sign up it requires about one hour a day, but there is not a need to be logged on at any specific time during the day. At the end, those who complete the required material will be awarded a Vanguard Online Certificate. Only those who have earned the Vanguard Certificate will be eligible for our next installment coming soon called Vanguard². The hope is to make Vanguard² an intensive hands-on training where participants work on an actual online course and will be awarded a stipend for successful completion.

Vanguard will be held March 24-28. We look forward to your participation.

A New Face in the TLC...

We would like to welcome a new face to the TLC. Christa Crawford is now here and available to assist in your teaching needs. She is excited to be a part of the TLC and is enjoying learning the ropes.

Christa has an extensive background in fine art and graphic design. She obtained her BFA in Metals and Jewelry from UNT and continues to find fulfillment in the arts. In addition to her own work, she also enjoys assisting her husband, Bill Crawford, Coordinator of the Computer Graphic and Animation department

Christa Crawford, TLC Instructional Specialist

here at CVC with Expressions Magazine.

We are happy to have Christa aboard and encourage you to drop-in and say hello.
